SECRETARY-REPRESENTATIVE REPORT

NAIARA DIVISION, SSITL

The division met on Thursday, March 29, 1986, at the office of the SSITL.
High Accident Law Suit

A right-angle collision occurred at an urban intersection. A pedestrian was struck by a vehicle, and the pedestrian sustained serious injuries. The collision was investigated by the local police department, and the investigation found that the driver of the vehicle had violated traffic laws. The pedestrian filed a lawsuit against the driver, alleging negligence. The case went to trial, and the jury found in favor of the pedestrian, awarding damages for medical expenses, lost wages, and pain and suffering. The driver appealed the decision, but the appeals court upheld the judgment. The case was resolved through a settlement, with both parties agreeing to terms that satisfied their legal claims.
